I think our society often propagates the metanarrative that Christians don't have fun, that a life of faith is a life of rules and restrictions. I believed this story growing up, thinking life would be better if I wasn't a Christian. However, I also thought that the rules were worth putting up with in order to go to heaven. Salvation tomorrow meant that I could cope with things today. Has this been your experience?

In his words to Titus, we see Paul use salvation in a context that isn't how we would typically understand the word. Paul sees salvation not as this distant goal, but as an immediate reality, and one that transforms our experiences. According to Paul, Christian life isn't about surviving until heaven, but about the Spirit progressively bringing heaven through us.

Yours in Christ,
Daniel Waugh

Justice Spot—

Justice for Aboriginal communities.

Last week Dan spoke from Matthew 7, urging us to consider Jesus' instruction to "do to others what you would have them do to you".

Dan spoke on what this statement, and what it could mean for how our nation treats Aboriginal communities - how we treat Aboriginal peoples. Consider "what you would have them do to you"... Would you have people listen to you? Would you have a jury examine your case fairly? Would you have your application to work professionally considered? Would you have your community acknowledge your family?

First nations peoples are disproportionately incarcerated, and vulnerable to health risks such the pandemic we're currently in.

This is an injustice that demands our application of Matthew 7. But how best could we do this? An article including suggested actions was posted on the service page from last week (5 July).

Additionally, an action in motion currently is the growing awareness of the Uluru Statement... ulurustatement.org

This statement seeks Australians' support for a first nations voice in the constitution...for first nations peoples to give advice on laws that will affect them.

This statement was the result of the painstaking efforts and sharing of many people, bannng together to articulate a way forward, pursuing justice for Aboriginal communities.

PRAYER TIPS:

Set apart time for God- get out in nature, journal read your Bible as you pray.

Ask God for where He wants us to step outside our comfort zone—Bless someone today.

CONNECT GROUPS -

Connect groups are a great way to get to know a small of people from our CBC community.

This is important when we are still not able to gather as a larger community. Groups meet regularly (e.g. via Zoom or face to face if small enough) to catch up, share and pray with one another.

Many groups are encouraged by reading the Bible, discussing it together, and letting it shape their lives. Contact Margy or the church office to find out how to you can join or host a group with a few other families or friends.

CAN YOU HELP?

Twins Albert and Jeremiah Hodgson are struggling to complete their L's driving license hours and need some help! If you are on your full license, have completed the church leadership forms and would be happy to supervise their driving, it would be a huge help (they will use their family car which is automatic). You can contact them on 0405 408 046 to arrange a time.

Keep PRAYING -

Our MONTHLY PRAYER FOCUS is the TRUSTING GOD. This month we are focusing simply on trusting God more. Let's begin by reading the scriptures. What does it mean to trust God? Let Him show us.
